OFFICER ENROUTE TO PHOENIX TO IDENTIFY TRIO UNDER ARREST

Arizona Officers Anxious To Keep Prisoners

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 16.—Held in the county jail following their capture after a hot gun fight, a woman who is believed to be Irene Schroeder, and two male companions today awaited identification by a Pennsylvania officer who is enroute here by airplane.

Mrs. Schroeder and one of her companions, Clem Dague, were sought in connection with the slaying of Corporal Brady Paul, a member of the Pennsylvania state constabulary, near Butler, Pa.

The third member of the trio, who claims to be Joe F. Wells, denied that he was J. W. Crawford, Mrs. Schroeder's brother, also sought in connection with the killing of the officer.

The woman claims that Wells was picked up by herself and Dague while traveling through Texas.

The trio was captured after they kidnaped Joseph Chapman, deputy sheriff, at Florence. Later they fought a pistol duel with officers at Chandler, where Chapman and Lee Wright, another deputy, were wounded.

Fleeing into the mountains and taking refuge in the wild country, the trio, after a brisk exchange of shots, was finally captured.

After first admitting her identity, the woman denied that she was Mrs. Schroeder. She also denied a previous statement that she had been living with Dague as wife and husband.

Reluctant to surrender the woman to Pennsylvania authorities, Phoenix police indicated that they would hold the blonde "trigger woman" for trial here on a kidnapping charge.

Should Pennsylvania be unable to produce sufficient evidence to convict her of murder, authorities here said the pretty mother would have to stand trial on a charge of kidnapping a deputy sheriff at Florence, Ariz. The penalty for kidnapping is life imprisonment.

Irene Schroeder and Dague are wanted in connection with a bank robbery and three holdups in Texas also.

CONSOLIDATION OF AIR MAIL LINES TO BE PROPOSED SOON

Complete Revision Of Air Line Map To Be Presented

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Complete revision of the air mail map of the nation will be proposed to congress in the form of bills for the consolidation and extension of air mail lines, Representative Clyde Kelly (R) of Pennsylvania, author of every air mail bill passed by congress, announced.

Twenty-five air mail lines now in operation over 14,368 miles will be involved in the proposed revision, together with proposals for extending new lines into many territories now demanding air mail service.

Confident congress will back extension of the air mail, Kelly is planning to ask the house post-office committee to review the whole question.

At the same time, Kelly announced his opposition to the plan of Postmaster-General Brown to revise the method of pay for air mail lines "to solve the financial difficulties of the air transport industry."

Instead, he pointed out the post-office department has failed to carry out the mandate of congress to revise air mail contracts to conform to the changes brought about by the reduction of air postage rates and a consequent increase in business.

COPS NOT PAID

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Six thousand policemen and their officers today went without their pay in Chicago. The city treasury has not sufficient money to pay them, it was announced.

"There will be no pay day until February 5 and commanding officers will govern themselves accordingly," was the message sent out by Commissioner of Police William Russell.

The city is without money until the passage of the tax levy ordinance making possible the sale of tax anticipation warrants.

GALE DASHES HOPES FOR EARLY ARRIVAL OF ARMS DELEGATES

Stimson Disappointed; Liner Will Reach Plymouth Friday

ABOARD S. S. GEORGE WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Bucking a sixty-mile an hour gale, the George Washington proceeded at reduced speed toward England today, dashing the hopes of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson for a Thursday midnight arrival at Plymouth.

It is now impossible for the George Washington to arrive at Plymouth before Friday forenoon. While Secretary Stimson is naturally disappointed that this setback will deprive him of the full extra day he had hoped for in which to carry out preliminary conferences before the five-power disarmament parties begin, he has accepted the circumstances philosophically.

The one consolation is that this later arrival will enable the good burghers of Plymouth to extend the ceremonial welcome they had planned, and which was disrupted when news came that Mr. Stimson had asked that the liner be speeded up to arrive at midnight tomorrow.

The Plymouth welcome, according to the information aboard ship, has now been filed for 8 a. m. Friday, with the delegation's departure for London immediately afterward. This will bring the delegation into London fairly early Friday afternoon.

It is understood that Secretary Stimson will confer with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald immediately upon his arrival in London. The secretary of state will be accompanied by Premier Andre Tardieu of France and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy, in response to their requests, that he would meet with them on Sunday. The entire American delegation to the conference dropped its official role last night in order to participate in the captain's ball, a gala affair.

All appeared in costume, and many members of the delegation danced with their wives, despite the fact that the ship pitched considerably in the heavy seas.

The George Washington's present speed is about sixteen knots. Before the wind impeded her progress, she was making nearly twenty.

BELIEVE AIRPORT HEAD TO FEEL AXE

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 16.—Belief that Major John Berry, superintendent of the Cleveland Airport, may be numbered among the victims of the political axe after the removal of William H. Hopkins as Cleveland city manager, today started a current of speculation as to his possible successor.

Ernest Basham, air mail flyer and pilot of the refueling craft by Byron K. Newcomb and Roy T. Mitchell in their endurance flight last summer, was prominently mentioned as a likely candidate.

Berry, who is recognized as an authority on air-drome problems, was Hopkins' choice as superintendent of the airport here. With Hopkins ousted from office, according to Dame Rumor, Berry will be dismissed and a new superintendent chosen.

TRAIN KILLS AUTOIST

DAYTON, O., Jan. 16.—H. G. Whitwell, of Miamisburg, was instantly killed when his automobile was struck by the engine of a Big Four passenger train, at Miamisburg, near here today. Whitwell, who is a train dispatcher, was returning from work at Middletown when the tragedy occurred.

BOMB AIMED AT POLITICIAN

PROMINENT DRY AND WET DISCUSS FIRST DECADE OF DRY LAW

Abandon It Says Senator Blaine; Enforce It Says Harris

(Editor's Note:—Today ends the first ten years of national prohibition under the eighteenth amendment. The wets say it can never be enforced; the drys say it must be enforced. In the accompanying articles, Senator Blaine, a prominent wet, suggests repeal of the prohibition amendment, and Senator Harris, a dry, proposes stricter enforcement. Their interesting views follow.)

By SENATOR JOHN J. BLAINE
Written Exclusively For International News Service
(Copyright, 1930, by International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Today, January 16, is the tenth anniversary of the prohibition regime. We have had ten years trial of the "noble experiment" and it has failed to bring temperance to the American people.

I propose, on this anniversary of prohibition, a constitutional amendment providing for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Repeal of the amendment, in my opinion, is the best cure for the evils of prohibition.

To liberalize the Volstead act would help establish moderation and temperance; but the ultimate solution of the curse of prohibition will be the abandonment of prohibition.

As I recall, in the last twenty years fifteen countries, including sovereign provinces, undertook prohibition. Of that number, the prohibition experiment prevails in only three, namely, the United States, Finland, and Prince Edward Island.

Each country and sovereign province that has abandoned prohibition, experimented about ten years. After all the failures to regulate the personal customs and habits of the individual citizen, sober-thinking friends of orderly government undertook a solution of the evils that had grown up under prohibition in those countries. In all those countries that had prohibited, the evils could be cured only by discarding prohibition.

America may well profit by their example. It was only last Monday when the president of the United States, in a message to congress, asserted that more than one-half of the arrests under the federal criminal laws were for violations of the prohibition law. This exposition speaks volumes, and is conclusive proof that prohibition is a failure.

In the last nine years three presidents have been ardent advocates of prohibition enforcement. None of them succeeded in enforcement though they had the entire enforcement machinery under their control, and they had a congress that, by an overwhelming majority, responded to every request for more machinery of enforcement.

By SEN. WILLIAM J. HARRIS
Written Exclusively For I. N. S.
(Copyright, 1930, by I. N. S.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—In these ten years, the prohibition law has never been given a fair trial and congress has never appropriated sufficient money to make it a success. Its enemies have claimed the law was a complete failure, and tried to make this and other laws a failure.

ACCUSE TEACHER IN WHIPPING OF GIRL

GEORGETOWN, O., Jan. 16.—Lloyd Brown, 21, of West Union, teacher at the Gilbert School in Brown County, today faced an indictment on a charge of assault and battery.

Brown was indicted late yesterday by the county grand jury following charges by John Gast, farmer, that the teacher had whipped his 15-year-old daughter, Cleo, because she closed a book too hard.

The alleged whipping was administered Monday. Brown received a whipping from the girl's father Tuesday.

Brown pleaded not guilty to the charge and was placed under $300 bond. No charge was filed against Gast.

MODJOSKI GIVEN JOHN FRITZ MEDAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Ralph Modjoski, son of the late Helen Modjoski, noted Polish tragedienne, today was the possessor of the John Fritz gold medal, the highest honor in the gift of the engineering profession of the United States.

"For notable achievement as an engineer of great bridges combining the principles of strength and beauty," the American Society of Civil Engineers presented the 1929 medal to Modjoski at a banquet here last night.

EMBEZZLER TRIED IN LONDON COURTS

LONDON, O., Jan. 16.—The trial of F. E. Willard, of London, former Madison County treasurer, charged with embezzling county funds totaling $2,300, opened in common pleas court here today.

Willard was removed from office by the Madison County board of commissioners October 1, 1929, and R. K. Looftbourrow was named treasurer. Following an examination of the books, an indictment was returned against Willard for the alleged embezzlement of the $2,300, which is said to have been repaid since then.

ERECT LEVEES AS PEOPLE FLEE

Flood conditions approaching and in some instances topping those of the disastrous 1913 inundation are laying waste mile after mile of fertile Indiana farm land and driving families from their homes. In many instances only the heroic work of scores of men heaping sandbags atop flimsy levees have saved towns from complete destruction. As a level of twenty-six feet threatened sandbag levees were thrown up in Vincennes. Photo shows a boulevard being sandbagged to keep high water of the rampaging Wabash river from flooding the latter town.

RECOVER BODIES OF TWO MINERS ENTOMBED FOUR DAYS IN SHAFT

DIXON, Ky., Jan. 16.—The bodies of two miners, Aaron Bridwell, 31, and Dorris Woods, 49, who had been entombed in the Carl Melton mine near here since Saturday, had been recovered here today after four days of desperate digging by rescue crews.

Fire broke out Saturday when the entrance way was ignited by sparks from a gasoline engine which was pulling coal cars.

Rescue crews and materials did not reach the mine until nearly twenty-four hours later, due to almost impassable roads which led to the mine.

Hope was held until late yesterday that the imprisoned men were alive, although they were trapped, with fire raging on the interior for four days.

Hardened miners and grim-faced women watched the rescue crews as they dug desperately. Lack of equipment proved fatal. It is believed.

EDUCATION LAUDED BY WILBUR; STARTS UNIVERSITY DRIVE

Building Campaign At John Carroll Opened By Secretary

CLEVELAND, Jan. 16.—Spurred by the urging of Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur to build an "educational institution with the reputation of a Georgetown, a Loyola, or a St. Louis," campaign workers took to the field today to raise $250,000 for buildings here at John Carroll University's new plant in University Heights.

Secretary Wilbur came here last night, accompanied by Mrs. Wilbur, to fire the opening gun in the general campaign. Immediately following his address to a mass meeting of the campaign workers he left for Chicago.

"Education means more to a community than anything else we do," Secretary Wilbur said in urging that the Carroll campaign be put across. "Our great need now is to maintain the proper proportion between science and democracy. Democracies are governed by majorities. If the majorities are uninformed and ignorant, our nation is threatened with destruction. We go back to education as insurance against future disturbances."

"The basis of our education in America," he said, "is the open road for all—an equal chance for all."

THREE COAST GUARD MEMBERS ARRESTED

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Three members of the coast guard were held here today by police on charges of desertion. The alleged deserters are Spencer H. Stevens, 21, of Lorain, Ohio; William A. Sandslow, 24, of Fairport Harbor, Ohio; and Frank E. Walters of Millersburg, Mich.

The trio will be arraigned before Lieut. Martin Rasmussen, commander of the Buffalo district coast guard and face a penalty of one year hard labor in the naval prison at Portsmouth, N. H.

MORRIS ELLER HOME DAMAGED BY BLAST; ELLERS UNINJURED

Rear Of Building Is Wrecked; Family Under Guard

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—A powerful dynamite bomb, aimed at the home of City Collector Morris Eller, reputed political czar of the "bloody Twentieth" ward, early today wrecked the rear of a three-story apartment building and threw occupants of the building into a panic.

The blast hurled Eller and his wife and their maid from their beds. The Ellers escaped uninjured but the negro maid, Annie Semmel, was badly cut and bruised.

This, the second bomb aimed at Eller in the last three years, wrecked the rear portion of the building, hurling occupants of the other apartments from their beds and showering them with pieces of broken glass.

Police immediately placed a guard about the homes of former Judge Emanuel Eller and William Eller, sons of the collector, fearing that similar attempts would be made on other members of the family.

Morris and Emanuel recently were the storm center of an investigation of election violence in the twentieth ward, and it was feared that political enemies might be starting a bomb war against the entire family.

The blast occurred shortly after Eller returned home and retired for the night.

The interior of Eller's home was a mass of glassware, pictures and furniture strewn about in a broken mass. The rear porch was sheered off clean by the explosion.

Eller could offer no reason for the bombing. He and his son Emanuel were indicted on conspiracy charges resulting from election violence in 1928, and both were freed of the charges.

PRISONERS TO SEEK RELEASE

Claim Long Terms Are Illegal

ELYRIA, O., Jan. 16.—Seventeen liquor law violators, serving out fines ranging from $300 to $1,000 in county jail here, were preparing to pool their resources today for a legal battle to obtain their release after serving six months.

The prisoners contend that under no circumstances are they required to serve more than six months for a misdemeanor. They base their contentions on the opinion of County Prosecutor Don Myers who recently made a statement to that effect.

Sheriff Clarence Adams, however, claims the prisoners must continue to serve out their fines at the rate of $1.50 a day. He is of the opinion that he cannot release the prisoners without an order from court.

Meantime, the prisoners are preparing a test case on the first of their number eligible for release, by hiring an attorney and procuring a writ of habeas corpus.

UP GOES SUGAR PRICES

Senate Seems Likely To Increase Duty That Will Affect Kitchen Budget

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—A $54,700,000 increase in the cost of filling America's sugar bowl loomed in the senate today as the probable outcome of the ten-day battle over the sugar schedule in the new tariff bill.

The senate appeared in a mood to increase existing sugar duties to the level recommended by the senate finance committee, although private polls previously indicated higher rates would be rejected. A last minute shift in sentiment was said to insure adoption of a $2.20 per hundred pound rate against Cuban imports with a $2.75 rate for world imports. This will throw the controversy into conference between the house and senate, as the house adopted a Cuban rate of $2.40 and a world rate of $2.90 per hundred pounds.

There were some rumors that the senate might even approve the house rates but neither Republican nor Democratic leaders would sanction this prediction. On the contrary, leaders on both sides seemed reluctant to claim victory, content to forecast a close vote. This incidentally was a strange attitude for senate politicians to assume and indicated the uncertainty of the battle over sugar rates.

MOTHER CAUGHT

Mrs. Irene Schroeder, mother of four-year-old Donald Schroeder, above, of Benwood, W. Va., who has been sought throughout the country as the "blond gunman," has been captured near Phoenix, Ariz., according to police. Trapped in a mountain ravine the woman and two male companions surrendered and is reported to have confessed she is wanted for the murder of a Pennsylvania highway patrolman. Donald gave authorities the first clue to Mrs. Schroeder's identity when he told police "mother shot a man."

FEAR OF JAPANESE WILL BE DEFENSE AT DOHENY TRIAL

Navy Directed To Furnish Report; Starts March 10

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—Fear of Japanese hostility, real or fancied, on the part of American naval experts and observers, will be the defense of Edward L. Doheny, California oil magnate, when he goes to trial here March 10, on a charge of having bribed former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall in connection with the Elk Hills naval oil lease scandals during the Harding administration. It appeared today, Justice William Hitz, sitting in the district supreme court, issued an order directing the navy department to produce the famous "Gleaves report," at the trial.

"The report, submitted in 1921 by Admiral Gleaves, is said to contain secret data in regard to the hostility of Japan to the United States. It has remained a diplomatic mystery despite legal attempts to have it introduced as evidence."

Doheny's attorneys, who defended Secretary Fall here last year, when he was found guilty of accepting the $100,000 bribe from Doheny, at that time interjected the specter of the Japanese fear.

Two separate attempts have been made in the oil trials to bring the renowned report into the open, but Secretary of the Navy Wilbur refused to produce it when Fall and Doheny were tried jointly with conspiracy to defraud the government. Secretary Adams declined to bring forth the document last year during the Fall trial.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 16.—Mrs. Terra Elder, 38, was in a critical condition in White Cross Hospital here today, following an accidental firing of a revolver which she attempted to pick up from a table in her home yesterday. Mrs. Elder received a wound in her left side. Her son, Jack, 16, witnessed the accident.

WINTER WEATHER IS DRIVING EASTWARD AS MERCURY DROPS

Flood Areas Suffer As Thermometers Begin To Fall

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Winter's severest cold wave, according to predictions, was settling its grip on the middle west today as a climax to a week of turbulent weather fluctuations that have brought death and the threat of flood disaster to many sections of the country.

Last night and early today thermometers east of the Rockies started a steady glide toward the zero point. A below zero temperature is predicted for the central states by C. A. Donnel, government forecaster. Donnel stated that tonight may see a temperature of five below zero.

The cold wave is sweeping in from Dawson, Alaska, where it is below zero temperatures are reported. At present it is ten below in Montana and North Dakota.

Acute suffering marked the sudden drop in temperature throughout the flooded areas of the Mississippi basin where rapidly-rising rivers and streams have driven hundreds of families from the shelter of their homes.

Along the Wabash and White Rivers flood conditions are the worst in the history of that section. Although the cold weather lessened precipitation, the streams were still rising today, driving additional floods to vacate their homes and seek shelter and safety on higher ground. Vincennes, Ind., today is almost battle against the flood.

Troops of the Indiana national guard maintained a night vigil in the neighborhood of the precarious bridge across the White River as the result of reported threats to dynamite the grade near the bridge because it is sending water from the Wabash against a dam which is protecting thousands of acres of rich farm lands.

DENVER, Jan. 16.—New low temperature records were being set in the Rocky Mountain region today as the mercury that already has held below zero for two weeks, continued to slip.

Heavy snows were falling in Colorado and New Mexico, huge drifts closing highways and blocking mountain passes. Highways between Albuquerque and Santa Fe were blocked or closed because of slippery road surfaces.

A new low record for the season was set in Denver when the mercury nosed down to nine degrees below zero.

Basin, Mont., cracked under thirty-two below. Sheridan, Wyo., reported twenty-four below.

STATE EXPECTED TO END CASE AGAINST ELECTION WORKERS

Sisters Will Begin Defense Evidence In Case Soon

BUYRUS, O., Jan. 16.—Testimony of two other members of the now-famous Precinct D election board of Crestline, Mrs. Dottie Barnson, Republican, and Mrs. Lola Foster, Democrat, who were scheduled to take the witness stand today, was expected to complete the state's case in the trial of Mrs. Edna Nelson, who is on trial in common pleas court here on charges of ballot tampering in connection with the village primary last August.

The case of the two ousted election officials, whose dismissal followed an investigation which was held shortly after the primary election, has rapidly become one of the most sensational election scandals in the annals of the state.

Inspection of the ballots by the county board of elections showed that extra marks which had been placed on the ballots, killed sixty-nine votes for L. F. Waldebaer, candidate for re-election as mayor and twenty-two for Mrs. Lindsey, candidate for clerk.

FIREMEN OVERCOME IN HOSPITAL BLAZE

CHICAGO, Jan. 16.—Fire which broke out today in the basement of Mercy Hospital overcame six firemen and spread smoke throughout the first four floors of the hospital.

All six of the fire fighters are reported to be in serious condition. Ten other members of the fire company required medical treatment.

Fourteen newly-born babies had to be hastily removed from the obstetrics ward when smoke penetrated the rooms.

Perfect order was maintained among the patients until the fire was extinguished.

Rankin, Illinois—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a tonic before and after my first child was born six years ago. Then when my second child came and I felt weak and run-down, I took it again. I am still taking it and I am feeling better. My mother used it for herself when I was small and always got good results. She still takes it. I do all kinds of heavy work, including my housework and I also help in the field. I recommend the Vegetable Compound and I am willing to answer any letters."—Mrs. BEN OBERMAN, Route 2, Rankin, Illinois.

Permission has been given to a representative of the Volunteers of America to hold their fourth annual "heart" tag day in Xenia Saturday, January 18, as has been done in nearby cities.

Mrs. L. S. Hyman will have charge of the young peoples' work and finances at headquarters in the Court House.

The Volunteers of America is an organization dedicated over thirty years ago to spiritual work among prisoners and the relief of their families. "More than 170,000 children have been saved to future good American citizenship through our work," said Mrs. Booth in her recent radio talk from Columbus.

The "hearts" will sell for whatever the purchaser is willing to give, a quarter, dime or half dollar, and it is hoped every one will take this opportunity to help this good work of Maud Booth.

FORMER INFIRMARY HEAD BEING TRIED

LONDON, O., Jan. 16.—For the second time within a year the jury at the second trial of Ralph Thomas, former superintendent of the Madison County infirmary, who was charged with embezzlement, failed to agree and the case had been dismissed today. The dismissal came after the jury had deliberated for more than five hours without reaching an agreement.

Thomas was charged with the embezzlement of $767 in county funds.

The second trial got under way Monday and was given to the jury of four women and eight men yesterday afternoon. No date has been set for a third trial.

Thomas was removed from the office of superintendent of the infirmary following his indictment.

XENIA SCOUTS TAKE PART IN MINSTREL WEDNESDAY NIGHT

A minstrel show sponsored by Wilmington Boy Scouts in the Wilmington High School auditorium Wednesday night, which was attended by a group of Xenia Scouts, was characterized by Wilmington critics as one of the best non-professional shows ever presented in that city. It is hoped by Xenia Scout leaders to have the performance repeated before a Xenia audience sometime soon. A capacity house greeted the show.

The first part of the entertainment was devoted to the minstrel and during the intermission between acts a delegation of Xenia Scouts from Troops No. 41 and 45, in charge of Scoutmaster R. H. Kingsbury, of Troop No. 41, put on a fire by friction contest, using the Yucca rubbing stick. Lester Price made a fire in twenty-eight seconds, the shortest time. Other Scouts who took part included Billy Anderson, Robert Crawford, Russell Sevart and Donald Jones.

of Troop 41 and Walter Everhart of Troop 45.

In the second half of the program impressions of the twelve Scout laws were seen through a large Scout emblem cut out in the scenery and explanations were given by the Rev. Mr. Folger, of Wilmington.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

CLOSE RELATIONSHIP—I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman. Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.—John 15:1, 2.

HAS MADE GOOD

Twenty-five years ago today Frederick Stock became conductor of the Theodore Thomas orchestra of Chicago. The organization now known as the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The event, though not so understood at the time, was one of the significant occurrences in the history of the development of music in America; in particular it had a profound stimulating effect upon the growth of musical art and appreciation throughout the middle west region of the United States.

At the time of his appointment Mr. Stock had for some time been assistant conductor under Mr. Thomas, then recently dead. There was a certain amount of natural uncertainty about the possible result of the promotion among those deeply interested in the perpetuation of the work of that great pioneer. Though Mr. Stock was known to be a thorough and careful musician, and had enjoyed the confidence and approval of Mr. Thomas, he was, nevertheless, young and somewhat untried, and the moment was a critical one in the life of the body of players he was called upon to lead.

But uncertainty speedily gave way to satisfaction. From the beginning the new conductor showed metal and capacity for work as well as capacity to interpret. The quarter of a century of his incumbency has been a quarter of a century of remarkably sound and steady growth and achievement. It has also been a peculiarly conclusive demonstration of the truth of the declaration that genius is applied talent. Under Mr. Stock's tutelage and leadership, the Chicago orchestra has become a band of remarkable flexibility, tonal beauty and virtuosity.

Mr. Stock's views are progressive and his tastes are catholic. He is authoritative in the classics—his Brahms is outstanding. His Wagner is vivid and possesses wide vistas. He is diligent in seeking out the worthwhile moderns and catching their spirit. Today, if scholarly and inspired musicianship, carefully kept, clean of sensationalism, is the test, Mr. Stock has no superior among symphony conductors of the land, and there are many who are confident that he has no equal. In addition he is a composer of distinction who might be better known to the general public as a creator of music in larger forms and in smaller if he were less averse to self-promotion.

Mr. Stock and his orchestra are the immediate and peculiar possession of the city of Chicago, and we congratulate it accordingly.

PERSONAL INVENTORY

This is the season of taking inventory—inventory of business mostly but as Joseph Fort Newton, writing in the Churchman suggests, why not take some inventory of ourselves.

For instance a "religious inventory." Regarding such an idea Newton says:

"If an angel with a pen of light were to take a spiritual inventory of the heart of the people in our pews, what would the record reveal? A medley, no doubt, of the faiths, feelings, fears, hopes and hauntings of a native religiousness, beyond which few ever go; mystic moods, moral edicts, relics of old magic, inarticulate longings, dark dreads, flashes of insight. In some religion is a few things remembered from childhood; in others a grim sense of duty unlocking hidden reserves; in others a passing awareness, a moment of wonder when the spirit trembles with awe; in others, a thing of rite and rote punctiliously performed; in other, a soft shield to blunt the raw edges of reality; in others, a wisp of wishfulness held together by a tenuous tie. In all of us, whether by lack or by loss, religion is more a quest than a conquest; a yearning rather than a realization; more occasional than continuous; less an insight than an instinct."

Cincinnati is to get a bequest running into billions, five hundred years hence. But suppose there isn't any Cincinnati half a millennium from now, who or what will be its heirs or assigns?

"Over the radio came this beautiful thought: 'What you wish for, work for.'—Atlanta Constitution. Suppose a person wishes for nice weather, how is he going to work for it?"

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

WORDS

The history of words is fascinating. The tail-less dinner coat, worn first at the Tuxedo Country club, near New York, came to be called a tuxedo. Jazz was originally the name of a dance devised in 1913. "Black hand," so often used in mysterious murder stories, was first phrased by Jim McCarthy, a reporter for the old New York Herald. Porterhouse steak may first have been served in a restaurant run by a man named Porter. It is also suggested that it was steak served in an inn which sold porter and other alcoholic drinks.

PLAY

Man's love of play seems to be as old as his love for work. Perhaps older. Tennis dates back at least to the time of Charlemagne, about 800. Probably it is older than that. Cards, golf, sports of many kinds go far back into the written records of mankind. And doubtless games were played long before men had a written history. The play spirit is natural, normal, instinctive. It is sometimes over developed. The most successful men are those who take their work in the spirit of play. They accomplish something because they enjoy doing it.

SENTIMENTAL

The man who wrote the poem, "The Night Before Christmas"—Dr. Clement C. Moore, will have his fame preserved by a memorial corner stone for a $25,000,000 apartment building which will stand on the site of the home where he wrote the verses 107 years ago. A proper tribute, and yet he hardly needs it. Children will preserve his immortality down through the ages.

A BIG ORDER

It's a big order that Prof. Dewey, teacher of philosophy in Columbia university, gives young people. He tells them to adopt a policy which will go to the roots of evils rather than remedy them. He urges them to devote their intelligent efforts to seeking causes and stopping evils at the source.

Remember the able bishop of Michigan, Dean Williams, who used to say that men and women spend too much time mopping up and think too little of turning off the faucet.

As Prof. Dewey points out, merely slumming around to find out how bad conditions are and then trying to relieve them in temporary fashion is not so important. It takes brains to find out the "whys" and prevent disease, destruction and disaster from happening.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS
WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

Is it true, several persons ask, that the government is building a new highway called the George Washington Memorial boulevard? Yes, it is being constructed between Washington and the home of the first president at Mt. Vernon, Va. Costing $4,500,000. It is to be opened for the 200th anniversary of the birth of Washington in 1932.

Battleship Size
How big is a battleship today? Around 35,000 tons. Largest transatlantic passenger liners are 59,000 tons.

Calendar Simplification
Please describe the Eastman plan of calendar simplification. The plan contemplates a year of 13 months, each of four seven-day weeks, plus a "skip day," counting in no week or month, at the beginning of each year, with an additional "skip day" between June 28 and July 1 quadrennially.

Horror of High Places
Is the honor of high places, to which some persons are subject, felt by them in aerial travel? Is it in aerial travel? It sometimes is felt in the case of captive balloons, apparently due to the sense of attachment to the earth.

Lincoln Memorial
How much did the Lincoln Memorial, Washington, cost? When was it dedicated? Three million dollars, May 30, 1922.

Musical Plays' Run
Which had the longer run in New York, "Show Boat" or "Whoopee"? "Show Boat."

Franklin's Death
When did Benjamin Franklin die? In 1790, aged 74.

Gen. Goethals' Epigram
On what did Gen. Goethals base his objection, so often referred to, to government boards of all sorts? "All boards are long, narrow and wooden."—Gen. Goethals.

Navy Economy
What did Secretary of the Navy Adams mean when he declared that, "The battleship is the most economical way of throwing high explosives about?" He meant that so many smaller war vessels would be required to accomplish a single battleship's equivalent in destruction that their total cost would exceed the battleship's.

China's Laundry Marks
Why do the newspapers spell most Chinese names in so many different ways? The Chinese symbols for words do not represent spelling according to western ideas, but are simply a "laundry mark" to a word. Many of the words themselves are almost unpronounceable by the average occidental. Translating these "laundry marks" into sounds we are capable of making is largely a matter of individual judgment, with no particular rules.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

IN QUAKER TOWN

Down Philadelphia way, in an alley between Locust and Walnut streets, there's a little circular luncheon room famous as a rendezvous for wandering Broadway theater folk. The players room in expensive, nearby hotels, but, to the despair of Mine Hosts, insist upon strolling over at meal time to the Codfish Ball Conservatory in the alley.

Every trouper who has ever been there of course recalls "Mabel," the spin gold tresses. Well Mabel has been saving her money and word comes that she has bought the Biscuit Bazaar and intends to rechristen it "Mabel's Place."

And if by this time next year Mabel hasn't been married into the "profession" I'll resign my job as an oracle.

TAKES COVERAGE

Mary Maloney directs the destinies of The Arkady Bake Shop and Luncheon room on Eleventh avenue. The surroundings are grim. There's a gas house nearby and an abattoir not far distant. The cinnamon rolls she dispenses may be a trifle soggy and her coffee not altogether orthodox. Also, Mary may be slightly off the trail so far as her spelling of "Arkady" is concerned. But her soul is alight and her heart beats high. It calls for a mighty rare brand of courage to toil all day in the shadow of the Gas house and a cloud of Arkady.

Pretty soon, let us hope, Mary may acquire enough enemies to enable her to shake the dust of the city from her poor, tired feet and go moving out among green fields and running brooks.

ANOTHER STORY

Usually, in a town like New York, you encounter more courage in the rough-neck neighborhoods than along the Lovell Levels. Not far from Miss Maloney's bake

TIME TO AWAKEN?

Senator Borah Wrong As To Liquor Source?

WASHINGTON.—Without taking one side or the other, it is easy to see that why and how Senator William E. Borah errs in his diagnosis of the enforcement situation. The senator believes he has discovered the main source of the country's liquor supply and wants it plugged up.

This would be all right if the Idaho statesman were correct as to the nation's principal bootleg source, but Dr. Commissioner James M. Doran says he is mistaken—that the source the senator mentions formerly was the main one but is not now.

Glancing back into prohibition history, we find that bootleggers were very dependent on smuggled goods to begin with.

Smuggling was easier then. With improvement in their facilities for fighting the smugglers, treasury officials claim to have crippled them materially. Indications are that they really have. Even places like Buffalo and Detroit rely today largely on domestic stuff.

Domestic stuff originally either was pre-prohibition whisky, left over in Uncle Sam's possession, or industrial alcohol, doctored in various ways, and both grafted out of the government's hands.

The pre-prohibition whisky presently gave out. Industrial alcohol supplies, however, have to be replenished and always will be available for beverage use, so long as bootleggerdom can continue diverting them to its own purposes.

Moonshining was a slower development.

Smuggling started overnight; the emptying of whisky warehouses as soon afterward as drink purveyors succeeded in establishing the necessary relationships with their custodians. The flavoring of pure grain alcohol followed shortly; then the reclamation of the denatured article. To make a good moonshiner requires time. Nevertheless it was an industry which grew up by degrees.

Senator Borah steps into the situation a trifle behind the times. He fancies that the alcohol-flavoring era is still in its heyday. He has definitely stated that suppression of the diversion of alcohol from industrial to beverage uses is the key to the whole prohibition enforcement problem.

In point of fact, if alcohol diversions have been suppressed some time ago, bootleggerdom unquestionably would have been hard hit temporarily. A crimp already had been thrown into smuggling. Pre-prohibition bottled goods were almost gone. Moonshine supplies were not yet adequate. Doctored alcohol was about all there was to be had.

But today moonshine is the backbone of the market. Any shortage created by the corking up of pure alcohol would be of brief duration—while the moonshin.

shop there's a vacant corner store, once a Temple of Bacchus. The windows are tightly boarded and painted red. The front door is padlocked and across the front is a sign:

ers were increasing their output. There are plenty of them. All they need to encourage their expansion is a larger demand.

We have Dr. Doran's word for the growth of the moonshine industry. We have more than his word; we have his proof.

Corn sugar! In the 1921 fiscal year America produced 132,000,000 pounds of it. In the 1928 fiscal year 968,000,000 pounds were required to meet the country's demands.

The figures are the commerce department's. Dr. Doran quotes them. The nation's population has not multiplied nearly six and a half times in those seven years; nor its corn sugar exports; nor does Dr. Doran admit that it has developed a six and a half times sweeter tooth.

The doctor surmises confidently that around 816,000,000 pounds of corn sugar annually are going into moonshine hooch.

How and why Senator Borah is mistaken is not hard to understand. He compares the amount of alcohol requisitioned, ostensibly for legitimate purposes, with the amount which, he estimates, can have been legitimately used—and finds a vast discrepancy.

Actually it is large, unquestionably.

But comparatively? "A minor problem," says Dr. Doran, who has had entirely too long an experience with prohibition to spend much time watching for leakage from a relatively small hole.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Menu Hint
LUNCHEON
Brains and Scrambled Eggs
Toast Jam or Stewed Fruit
Celery Cup Cakes

Are you the kind of housekeeper who cooks the same kind of meat, the year around? Or do you like to experiment? The general preparation of some unusual meats is given in today's recipes, with a recipe for scrambled eggs and brains.

Today's Recipes
Brains and Scrambled Eggs—One brain, four eggs, four tablespoons milk, one tablespoon butter. Drain the parboiled brain and separate in small pieces. Beat eggs slightly, add milk, salt and pepper, a little grated onion and the brains. Cook slowly in the butter, stirring occasionally. Served garnished with finely chopped parsley.

General Preparation
Brains—Brains from the beef, calf, mutton, lamb or pig may be used. They are all very tender. They will not keep long, unless parboiled. Soak first in cold water to remove the blood, then parboil in salted acidulated water to make more firm and less perishable. After parboiling they should again be soaked in cold water.

Sweetbreads—These are the thymus glands of calves and are known as veal sweetbreads. They are in two parts and consequently are bought in pairs. The round part is the heart sweetbread, the other the throat sweetbread. Sweetbreads spoil quickly so should be put into cold water as soon as purchased. Let stand one hour, then parboil in salted vinegar water. After cooking plunge at once into cold water to whiten.

Liver—Beef, calf, lamb and pig liver are less tender, but are just as nourishing as the more delicate liver. If liver is to be used in one large piece, it should be soaked in cold water long enough to remove the clotted blood. The heavy membrane covering should also be removed.

Heart—Calf, lamb and pig hearts are more tender than beef and mutton. This organ needs plenty of washing in cool water to remove the clotted blood. Some of the veins and arteries may also be cut out in order to make it tender. Heart needs long slow cooking, in moist heat.

Tongue—Calf or beef tongues are most desirable because of size. Lamb and pig tongues are good, but small. The tongues should be well scrubbed before cooking, the heavy skin and roots should be removed after cooking.

Kidneys—Lamb, pig or calf kidneys are good. They should be cut to remove the white tubes and fat, then soaked in cold water 30 minutes before cooking.

Peter's Adventures

By Mrs. Florence Smith Vincent

SNAP-BEETLE "SNAPS OUT OF IT"
Peter liked Biffer, but he didn't like the way Biffer treated his cousin, Snap-Beetle. So the boy became Snap-Beetle's champion and told Biffer exactly what he thought of that young Gun-Beetle's actions. For a moment Biffer seemed ashamed of himself; his head drooped. Peter turned his back upon him. Biffer perked up.

"See here, boy, you don't understand," shrilled the young Gun-Beetle. "We are teasing Snap-Beetle. I admit. But he doesn't mind so very much, although he will pretend to. He doesn't need your help to get on his feet, either. You watch and see if he does!"

Peter had turned his back upon Biffer to go to the aid of Snap-Beetle, but at Biffer's plea he stood still. After all, maybe Biffer was right, and he was minding something that wasn't his business. After all, if Snap-Beetle didn't care, why should he? If it was only a joke Biffer and the Tumble-Bugs were playing upon their cousin, why any good sport ought to be able to take a joke even when it was on him. He'd wait and see.

And while Peter was watchfully waiting, something happened. Jerk, went Snap-Beetle's little body. "Snap," Peter heard a faint sound. And up sprang the fallen beetle—not only to his feet, but he leaped high into the air. When he came down again, close to Peter's side, Snap-Beetle was right-side-up and on his feet again.

"Great Scott! How did you do that?" demanded Peter, in his surprise forgetting he and Snap-Beetle had not been introduced. His voice scared Snap-Beetle half out of his wits. Once more the nimble fellow went up in the air. "Wh-wh-who are you?" stammered Snap-Beetle. "And wh-what are you going to do to me? It is bad enough to be the 'family goat' without fearing every stranger you meet is going to play some mean trick upon you!"

Answers to Mothers
God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.
—Jewish Proverb.

"DEAR DOCTOR: I have a son 26 months old, and I have tried in every way to get cow's milk to agree with him. It seems to agree with him for just so long, and then he gets an intestinal upset which makes him very cranky. His face also breaks out in a rash. He has had the best possible care since he was a tiny infant, and I have had him to several baby doctors, but none seems to help him. His weight goes up and down. I am quite upset over this, and discouraged, too, as I know how valuable milk is for children. Everything else seems to agree with him. MRS. K."

It may be possible that your baby has a sensitization (also known as an idiosyncrasy or food allergy) to milk, and you may eventually have to substitute a milk made from nut butters (especially almond), or soy beans. But have you tried boiling the cow's milk for three or four minutes, or putting a little gelatin in it? It may be possible, also, he could handle a formula made from the canned or dried milks. These are thoroughly sterilized and they sometimes agree with children when other milks do not. And sometimes buttermilk or artificially acidified milk will agree when sweet milk does not. I suggest you take this matter up with a baby specialist.

I presume you are using certified milk for your baby, so that you know it is pure.

We have a list of modern books on the feeding and general care of children, which you may have by observing column rules.

"DEAR DOCTOR: My two little girls, aged ten and four years, both have goiters. We can see that these have grown quite a bit in the last year. What would you do if these were your girls? Is goiter hereditary? MRS. K."

The first thing I would do Mrs. K., would be to take my girls to a competent physician, preferably one who specializes in what we know as internal medicine. Simple enlargements of the thyroid gland, without any other symptoms, are known as simple goiters. They have been proved to be due to a deficiency of iodine in the foods or water, or else to some condition that has prevented its absorption. In districts where the vegetation and water are known to be very low or devoid of iodine, these goiters are very common; hence these regions are known as goiter belts.

There is evidently a greater need for iodine during adolescence, and during pregnancy and nursing, than at other times. If the pregnant woman doesn't get enough iodine, or if for some reason it is not absorbed, she is liable to develop goiter, and so is her baby. To this extent we say it is hereditary, although the word congenial is the better term, for it is not passed on by the germ cell, as true hereditary factors are.

In the goiter belts it has been found that the incidence of goiter among adolescent children has been greatly reduced by iodine medication or by the use of iodized salt, and very frequently goiters that have already formed will disappear. So see a physician, Mrs. K., and get specific directions.

We have an article on Thyroid Disturbances which you may have by following column rules.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose nor give personal advice. Your questions, if of general interest, will be answered in the column in their turn. Requests for articles or pamphlets on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed stamped envelope, plus the following small charge to help cover cost of printing and handling: For each article wanted, two cents in coin. For each pamphlet 10 cents in coin. The pamphlets are Reducing and Gaining, Hygiene of Women, Kidney and Bladder Disorders. Address: Dr. Peters, in care of this paper. Write legibly, and not over 200 words.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

New Order Sometimes Is Harmful

There are times when one is inclined to ask whether the new economic freedom of women, their right to make their own living married or no, is wise. Too often one finds the man lying down on the job because his wife works outside of the home.

He is more than willing to let her earn the living and also keep the home going. He comes home at night—if he works at all—to eat his dinner and read his paper or listen to the radio, while his wife, after a hard day at the office, store or factory, prepares the meal, does the dishes, then washes, irons, mends and cooks until bedtime.

Much good has come out of the new order, but like every thing else under the sun, it has its bad points, and sometimes these seem to outnumber the good.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a reader of your letters and would like some advice. I am 41, and have been married 23 years. In the last ten years my husband wants me to work all the time and make the living. I have been away from him four months. In the meantime, there is a friend of my brother who has fallen in love with me. He doesn't want me to work, but get free and marry him. I have no children. I care for this fellow, but don't know what to do, whether to go back to my husband or stay here. He is 3,000 miles from me, and I hardly ever hear from him. I hope you will advise which would be the best to do. WORRIED L."

Unless you love your husband very much and can't be happy without him, I would certainly advise you to sue for divorce and marry the other man, provided you care for him, as you say you do. I can't see any particular point in supporting a man if he is able to care for himself. If he was ill it would be a different matter.

HAPPY TROUBADOUR: Your girl friend is what is known as temperamental. Part of the trouble may be her youth. It might do her good to tell her frankly that the reason she doesn't have a better attitude at the dances is because of her attitude.

If you do this in an affectionate manner she will not take offense, and it may help her to overcome her fault.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Your Weight And Beauty Related

You know, as well as I, the relation between weight and good looks—how charming it is when weight is normal—how ugly and distressing when weight is over (or under) what it should be. But I know probably better than you how difficult it is for some women to keep at normal weight, and how comparatively easy it is for others to gain or lose the desired number of pounds. Also how dangerous it is to reduce by unscientific methods.

Women have come to me in all stages of emaciation, chins and cheeks sagging, necks scrawny, upper arms baggy with folds of flesh, and begged to be restored to their former firm plumpness. Anything to get rid of the wasted, aged, gaunt look. And other women have come to me heavy with unwanted pounds and have begged to lose it, safely.

While I do not specialize in problems of weight reduction, I have nevertheless, told both these types they could be brought to normal provided their conditions were not connected with any kind of disease. Just as your weight can be normalized by correct diet or exercise, no glandular or serious organ trouble causes it.

Last summer I made a study, reducing methods at the European watering places, where the fine scientists in the world prescribe reducing and other health cures for women. At Vichy, Carlsbad, Aix-les-Bains and other places, I saw women reducing safely and growing healthier with every pound the lost.

There are several scientific diets and exercises you can use to reduce scientifically, with good results. You need to reduce, choose one of these methods and follow it consistently until you have proved its usefulness to you.

Primo Carnera Sells Out Garden For Bout

FANS SEEM ANXIOUS TO WITNESS GIANT BATTLE PETERSON

Walsh Says Fighter Will Not Be Popular Despite Result

By DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—In spite of several things, including the fact that the average chin has at last rejoined the rest of the countenance after hanging down among the haberdashery for weeks, the miracle of Primo Carnera is still effective enough today that Madison Square Garden practically is sold out, a week in advance of his American debut.

Advance orders have almost wiped out the reserved sections, leaving the general admission seats to the tender mercies of the mugs. These are so tender that shop keepers in the garden block are said to be considering the advisability of boarding up their show windows on the night of the fight, statistics having proven that a mug and a plate glass window are almost inseparable.

The thing, of course, ought to be a one-man show, in view of the fact that Primo has fearlessly consented to meet Big Boy Peterson himself. The latter isn't appropriately named. The "big" part of it is all right but the "boy" should be something else, rhyming with gum, yum and dumb.

However, nobody seems to care about that. They didn't seem to care yesterday when it cost one of them the fourth part of a dollar to find out that Primo wasn't working at a local gymnasium. Apparently they were satisfied with the fact that they came near seeing him and, if there is twenty-five cents worth of satisfaction in that, there ought to be one to five dollars worth in seeing Big Boy Peterson swoon before the rapacious monster or something.

As a matter of fact, Primo appears to get by on his own momentum. When he first came here, the papers climbed right up his shoulders and gave three typographical cheers. Then they promptly forgot him and, being that they are supposed to be barometers of public sentiment, the mugs should have forgotten, too.

They didn't. Indeed, it begins to look as though they never will. As to whether the memory will be pleasurable or resentful, time only will disclose. It is my guess that they will resent Primo very deeply, once the spell of his amazing height and weight and feet has worn off. If he goes in there and begins knocking over smaller men, they will resent the unfairness of the match. If he fails to beat his man to a point where the latter is within five minutes ride of the hospital, they will condemn him as a bum of the worst sort, which, of course, is a big bum.

Either way, therefore, he will be wrong, speaking from the standpoint of popularity. Financially, he will be extremely right. If he proves he can't fight at all, because, then, they will go to see him licked. I don't think he plans to object. Most of us, as a matter of fact, would rather be wrong with money, than right, with penury.

Commenting recently on the attempts to eliminate the center tip, Dr. James Nalmsmith, member of the faculty of Kansas University and inventor of basketball, said that the elimination, while making a game monotonous, tended to make it a little faster. The plan was tried in the game between Kansas and Mexico in an effort to away with the inequality that exists when one team has a center much taller than the other.

The change was particularly noticeable in the trial at Lawrence, Kansas, because of the short stature of the Mexican players. However, it was not possible to determine how much of their scoring was due to the absence of the center jump and how much to their ability and teamwork.

BUCCANEERS HANDICAPPED FOR LEAGUE GAME WITH TROY HERE

Xenia Central High School's basketball squad is having its toughest this week due to injuries and ineligibility and one radical change in the regular lineup is announced by Coach Walter "Pinky" Wilson for the second Miami Valley League game of the season with Troy High here Friday night.

In an effort to inject additional scoring punch into the Buccaneer quintet, Coach Wilson discloses that Fred Dalton, a promising freshman player, will start the Troy game at a forward position as a running mate of Birch Bell. Dalton, who is even smaller than Bell, has not started a game this season but played a short time in Xenia's opening game with Waynesville and has more or less of a reputation, acquired while playing basketball for New Antioch a Clinton County grade school.

Last season Fred and a younger brother were the mainstays of Central's junior high team, the brothers having moved here from Clinton County.

Fred will take the place of Edgar Michael, junior, who was dropped from the squad Wednesday night because of "incoordination," according to Wilson. Schleppl, senior, who has been alternating with Michael at one forward post, is laid up with a "charley horse" on the left leg and this physical ailment will probably keep him out of the Troy game.

And to make matters somewhat worse, Bob Hardy, another member of the first team squad is ineligible to play Friday night.

In order to bolster up his squad, Coach Wilson has promoted Elwood Shaffer, diminutive senior and David Short, lanky sophomore, from the second squad to the first squad and in all probability either or both will see some action Friday night. Incidentally Kenneth Finlay is also ineligible for the second team.

Announcement is made that E. J. Schall, Middletown, will referee the Xenia-Troy tilt. With three players on the first squad not available, Xenia's chances for a victory over Troy are not particularly enhanced but the Buc are not discouraged and are confident of annexing their second straight league victory.

Wilmington College basketball annexed a 32 to 15 victory over Antioch College's Division "B" quintet in a game at Yellow Springs Wednesday night which marked Antioch's second consecutive setback.

Pierson, Quaker forward, broke away for six baskets for twelve points while Antioch center, tallied eleven of his team's fifteen points.

In a preliminary game the Wilmington reserves trounced the Antioch reserves, 37 to 23. Antioch used eleven players in this game. The next contest for the Division "B" team is with Rio Grande on the latter's floor January 22. Earlier in the season Rio Grande defeated Antioch's Division "A" quintet. Lineups and summary:

"AUNT LUCIA" GETS WARM RECEPTION AT FIRST PERFORMANCE

An hilariously funny plot situation contributes to the mirth that prevails throughout "Aunt Lucia," a collegiate comedy presented by home talent at Central High School auditorium Wednesday night under auspices of Alpha Theta Chapter, Delta Theta Tau Sorority, and directed by Miss Marjorie Drake, director for the Universal Producing Co., Fairfield, Iowa. The piece will be repeated Thursday night.

More than the usual amount of plot for such productions went into the making of "Aunt Lucia," and add to this a cast that performed nobly, and even elegantly, and you have an evening's entertainment which made the corners of the mouth turn up and the palms of the hands tingle with the effort of applause.

Customers who giggled unrestrained through the three acts of the production on opening night, would have felt an even deeper appreciation however, if they had known of the trials and tribulations that beset the path of the production. Inability to obtain talent for some of the most important specialties shortened the playtime considerably, while an ever shifting cast of principals kept the director in a state of constant despair. When it is realized that there were changes in the speaking parts made as late as the day of the production, then the first night audience, which saw these people perform with the finish that goes with days of rehearsal, may realize what effort was put forth that they might be entertained and amused.

The story is laid in a college fraternity house, and revolves around the expected visit of Lucia Wakefield, maiden aunt of one of the principals, who is reported to be a millionaire and who, it is hoped, will donate liberally for a new football stadium. Bob Owens, in the part of "Merry," attired himself in the billowing skirts, skimmer hat and silver curls of a past generation for the amusement of his fraternity brothers and found himself in the awkward position of being mistaken for Aunt Lucia. He finds this position an altogether pleasant one in the contacts it brings him with the girls, but not quite so pleasant when his fraternity brothers object to his association with their girl friends and when he is the target of violent love-making on the part of the rickety Prof. Gaddis, as portrayed by William Kennedy and the spry and agile "Collins" as portrayed by Isadore Hyman and "Butter and Eggs" as depicted by Elwood Smith.

Add to this the fact that his own girl, "Ethelyn," as played by Miss Dora Hayward, is heart-broken over his failure to appear to take her to a party and is consoled by making another "date" and you have the makings of a situation that is bound to stretch the laugh muscles. Bob Owens brought a remarkable appreciation to a rather difficult role and the audience found Elwood Smith and Isadore Hyman screamingly funny. Miss Helen Spahr and Miss Dorothy Devoe played their parts with charm and John Harvey Collins and Paul Collins bore the brunt of the dialogue with considerable exhibition of talent. Others who performed ably were: William Kennedy, Miss Mary Mangum as "Dean Howland," Roger Chambliss as the fraternity president and as "Dr. Seamore," Mrs. Fred Snyder as "Mrs. Seamore" and Don Chambliss, Philip Campbell and Ben Lickliter in minor roles. Mention of Charles "Bud" McPherson has been purposely omitted so far because this eloquent youngster made a fairly successful attempt to steal the show Wednesday night. In the role of a freshman at the fraternity house, he kept the proceedings in a turmoil and the audience in a gale of laughter giving a remarkably professional-like portrayal.

A girls chorus gave Miss Dora Hayward opportunity to sing very charmingly several numbers, including "Out in the New Mown Hay," "Breezing Along" and "What Do I Care." A quartet composed of Misses Helen Spahr and Dorothy Devoe and John Harvey and Paul Collins sang "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" and the last musical number was "Say It Again" sung by the entire company as a finale. The chorus included: Misses Katherine Overstreet, Donna Harness, Dorothy Crawford, Evaline Evans, Mary Hayward, Hester Creamer, Marian Snyder and Betty Hoag.

The show started well with a baby pageant that was one of the most attractive bits of the entire production. A large group of youngsters, both boys and girls, from the first four grades of school made a charming picture, attired in their "nighties." Miss Mildred Mason gave a finished performance in three song numbers to the youngsters, singing "Take Me Back to Babyland," "Sleepy Head" and "Booey-Oogey-Man." Members of the Downtown Country Club swelled the chorus in the fraternity house scenes when a number of songs and college yells added "pep" to the proceedings. The show moved briskly and finishes well ahead of bed time, which furnishes an added attraction. Your correspondent can see no reason why the evening or the money would be ill spent in case you are interested in seeing the closing performance Thursday.

CHARITY AGENCIES HELPED GIVE MANY MERRY CHRISTMAS

During the month of December the local Red Cross Chapter and Social Service League received many volunteer donations from local agencies that helped the joint organizations make many families in the city happy at the Christmas season.

The following report submitted by Miss Emma Lyon, executive secretary of the joint organizations, shows the Christmas work which was taken care of.

Mrs. Austin Patterson's Sunday School Class of high school girls donated gifts; the Galloway Bible Class donated dressed dolls for little girls; the Young Women's Missionary Society of the First U. P. Church donated canned fruit; Mrs. Walter Currie's Sunday School Class of the First M. E. Church donated clothes to a needy family in the county; the Geyer Book Shop donated a large number of toys and story books of various kinds; the Sayre Drug Store donated twenty-five boxes of candy. A special committee sorted the toys and filled twenty-four boxes with toys, candy, oranges, bananas and nuts for twenty-four families, each with a membership of from five to ten children. Trinity M. E. Church, Delta Theta Tau Sorority, American Legion Auxiliary, the Junior Department Class of the First M. E. Church and Mrs. G. B. Copeland's Sunday School Class of the United Brethren Church gave baskets of food for twelve families on the request of Sunday School Classes and friends and two baskets were donated by a friend.

The Kiwanis Club donated $50 to purchase groceries for needy families. A list of names of forty little boys was prepared and given to the Rotary Club for its Christmas party. A list of names of eighteen little girls was prepared and given to Miss Frazee's Sunday School Class for a Christmas dinner and party and the organization furnished coal and groceries to ever needy family that applied or was brought to the attention of the organization Christmas Eve.

That Giant Juggler . . . Ohio's Winter is mighty tough on motor oil

But tossing temperatures never daunt

New SOHIO MOTOR OIL

It's tougher . . . more flexible . . . free from harmful wax

ASK any of the thousands who have used New Sohio this winter. They know there's never been a motor oil quite like it. They've put it to the severest test of all—actual winter service in Ohio—and New Sohio has come through gloriously!

Stone-cold motors "spin" merrily at the touch of the starter, even on zero mornings—warm up smoothly with scarcely a pull on the choke—hum sweetly on long, hot, high-speed runs, when New Sohio is in the crankcase. Cold doesn't make it sluggish. Heat doesn't thin it dangerously. Sharp shifts in temperature disturb it not at all.

To make such an oil, a totally new refining process is utilized. New Sohio is a 100% paraffin base oil, freed from harmful wax at 50° below zero—an achievement never before thought possible. The result is an oilier oil—more flexible—longer lasting—the ideal motor oil for Ohio.

CLIFTON SPEAKS AT BEAVER; ORDERS SCHOOL SURVEY SOON

A survey of educational conditions in Beaver Creek and Caesar Creek Twp. school districts, where high school charters were revoked by Dr. J. L. Clifton, state director of education, after bond issues to improve school facilities were defeated at the November election, will be made within a few days by Dr. T. C. Holy, specialist from the state educational department.

This announcement was made by Director Clifton, who spoke at a session of the Beaver Creek Twp. Farmers' Institute in the K. of P. Hall at Alpha Wednesday afternoon and explained to residents of Beaver Creek Twp. requirements of the state department of education for recognized high schools of the first, second and third classes.

Preceding his talk on high school requirements, the director gave a general address on youth and education.

Road conditions, approximate location and transportation and cost of different types of high schools will be considered in the survey to be made by Dr. Holy. Following the survey it is expected that petitions asking electors to support another bond issue at the next general election will be placed in circulation. Director Clifton promised residents of the township that in the event the bond issue carries he will at once restore the high school charter.

At the last November election Beaver Creek voters defeated a $155,000 bond issue intended to finance consolidation of the schools and erect a consolidated high and grade school building while a $55,000 bond issue designed for high school improvement was also defeated in Caesar Creek Twp.

At the close of the director's address remarks were made by several persons in the audience, including L. W. Ankeney, prominent farmer, who raised a question as to the financial ability of the township to construct and maintain such a school as proposed.

Making a plea for transportation of the high school students at the expense of the township board of education, to high schools in Dayton or Xenia, either of which places he held was the real community center, the Rev. A. D. Wenrick spoke against the erection of the township high school. This statement was contradicted in

XENIAN SUGGESTS WINNING PROGRAM

A rural sketch, based on an old-time public sale on a farm, was the feature of the Ohio Farm Bureau program broadcast by the Farm Bureau Gang from Station WAIU, Columbus, Wednesday night.

The sketch was suggested by Mrs. W. H. Feutzer, West Carrollton, and won first prize in a contest conducted by the Gang to have the listeners plan the programs. Miss Stella Bone, near Xenia, won second prize with her suggestion of a party in a sugar house. This program will be staged later in the season when the maple sugar season is at its height, according to Paul E. Buehler, director of the Gang.

SIMON BADGLEY IS REMOVED BY DEATH

Simon Badgley, 71, passed away at a local hospital at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening following an illness of some time. Complication of diseases caused the death. Mr. Badgley had been in failing health for several years but his condition became serious recently and he was removed to the hospital for treatment a week ago.

He was born at Cedarville, March 7, 1859 but lived in the vicinity of Xenia most of his life and moved to Xenia seven years ago. He married Miss Mary J. Reel in October, 1903, who survives him.

Funeral services will be held at the residence, 1061 W. Second St., Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be made at Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call at the residence anytime after Friday noon.

Cleveland Bank Robbers Apprehended

The mobilization of police and speed cars from various parts of Cleveland, Ohio, has been the quickest in the history of the city, when three young bandits held up Euclid-Ivanhoe branch of the Cleveland Trust Company (left), obtaining $906. The bandits led the police a wild chase which ended in the arrest of two suspects. (Right) Mario Greco, alleged bandit, arrested after a chase through the dense woods is believed to be one of the hold-up men.

APPROVE SCHOOLS

Wilberforce University and Antioch College are included among forty-one Ohio colleges and universities which have been approved for teacher training in one or more fields by the state department of education, according to a recent announcement made by the department and published in the 1929-30 educational directory of the state of Ohio just issued.

THROUGH THE MICROPHONE

BY BROADCASTER

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—Folk music, springing from the heart of a people is one true index of a nation's character, and expresses better than anything else the economic, social and emotional trends of the country. The gaily naive melodies of France reflect the enjoyment of a nation that knows liberty. Russian folk music, wrought to the strumming of the balalaika sings the nostalgia of an oppressed race. Scandinavian music is austere and cold, the snowbound surroundings imparting a restraint to expression. English folk songs are rollicking and breezy reminiscent of the ale and roast beef of Elizabethan days.

The authority for this statement is Chandler Goldthwaite, internationally known concert organist and musical director of the new Davey Tree radio hour.

Moreover, Mr. Goldthwaite believes that American folk music is a medley of all the elements found in the music of other races, with a predominating tone of gaiety that reflects the wholesome happiness found in fine living conditions.

"America's gaiety," Mr. Goldthwaite declared, "is seen in such oldtime tunes as 'Turkey in the Straw,' now synonymous for pep and dash. A certain repressedness dominates in the rhythmic negro spirituals such as 'Deep River,' while simple melody sparkles in bright tunes like 'Dixie,' 'Swanee River' and 'Carry Me Back to Old Virginny.'"

"When all other music fails to charm, these songs never lose their power, for they bring up memories of the past and our childhood. There is an increasing demand from listeners all over the country for music of love, or the home or pastoral scenes. The public is getting tired of jazz and is hungrily turning to those more wholesome melodies of another day."

It is only a question of time when all passenger carrying airplanes will be compelled to carry complete radio equipment and radio operators, according to Rudolph Duncan, president of RCA Institutes, Inc., an institution engaged in training men for radio callings.

"The leading air transport companies are coming to realize the absolute need for radio, not only in securing weather reports, landing instructions and other routine business, but also for the convenience of passengers in sending and receiving radiograms while in flight and in 'listening-in' on entertainment broadcasts," Dr. Duncan states.

"Artistic temperament has no place in the broadcasting studio," according to Gustave Haenschen, conductor of the Palmolive Orchestra.

"Talent, hard work and plain horse sense are the essentials for success in a radio career," Haenschen says. "Probably in no other field of entertainment is the old theatrical adage that 'no matter what happens the show must go on' such a fetish as it is in the radio studio. But there it is not merely the show must go on and go on right, but it must go on on time. That is the director's job. He is both stage manager and orchestra leader, and he is responsible, not only to the studio officials but to the millions who are listening in throughout the nation. Even a few seconds delay in the course of a program is a disappointment to the audience and may cause a large percentage of listeners to tune-off—for the briefest pause over the air is far more noticeable and seems longer than it would in a theater."

Mrs. Julian Heath, whose "Your Daily Menu" program is heard five afternoons a week, through the NBC system, is suffering from a sprained right ankle—Radio as a cultural influence on American speech was explained by Milton J. Cross, announcer, who won the American Academy's first radio dictation prize, in a recent talk before the National Association of Teachers of Speech meeting in New York. The first ten months of 1929 showed an increase of 25 per cent in trans-oceanic messages over the preceding year.—Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is to become one of the members of the faculty of the recently established R. I. College of Co-operative Marketing.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

FOR THE LOVE o' PAT

BY C.L.WEBB

READ THIS FIRST:

Lieutenant Rex Dallard, Dr. Frank Gordon, both in love with Patricia Blair, Red Cross driver, follow her to Paris on receiving news of her kidnapping. It is near the close of the World War. Patricia, joint heir with her twin brother, Jimmy, to a huge estate, has partially identified a wounded aviator, apparently suffering from aphasia, as her twin brother, but Dallard and Gordon believe another youth, also an aphasia victim, to be the real Jimmy. This latter youth is spirited away from a Paris hospital. Then Herbert F. Maxwell arrives from New York, announcing himself as the legal guardian of the twins, and also his intention of taking the partially identified brother back to New York. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X

"If we only knew something about that legacy-in-trust," continued the lieutenant, almost fully, "then we'd have something to work from. I assume that it was left them by their deceased father. But what are the conditions, if any, attached to its transfer to them on their twenty-fifth birthday? If we knew the wording of the will we'd have a pretty good idea as to whether Patricia and Jim are at present in actual danger of their lives. Or whether, perhaps—"

The possibility involved in the unfinished sentence was too horrible even to contemplate. They must go on as they had started—on the assumption that Pat and Jim still lived.

It was during this talk that Dr. Gordon voiced a question that had bothered Margery ever since Dallard's first suggestion that the lad who had saved his life was very likely the brother of Pat Blair.

"How is it, lieutenant?" the doctor asked, a puzzled look in his kindly blue eyes. "How do you figure any preconceived plot in that airplane crash that dumped the man with the James K. Blair letters in his pockets out on the road in front of Pat and Jim? You know, don't you, that she cried out to me 'it's my brother, Jimmy,' even before we found the letters? How do you account for those things—the crash and all?"

"It's just the arm of coincidence," averred Dallard, a grim tightening of the mobile mouth betraying the mulish blood in his veins. "A chance happening. Its like might not occur again in a million years. And it might occur today or tomorrow."

"So far as concerns the letters in his pockets," went on the lieutenant, warning to his subject, "haven't I told you what the lad, Jim, told me in the shell hole that morning? Don't you recall that his uniform, letters, tag and everything were stolen and a German uniform left for him? This chap, who had been chosen by Maxwell just because he looked so much like his ward, James Blair, had been waiting for this very chance to get at young Jim. Blair was known to be a flyer in the American corps. They were flying back and forth across the lines on both sides every day, and every day or so a flyer was brought down—sometimes hurt, sometimes badly hurt and sometimes unhurt. This day it was Blair's luck—or ill-luck—to be brought down unhurt when the gas tank of his ship was punctured by a bullet."

"So now," continued Rex Dallard, grinning as he noted the wrapt look on the faces of his two listeners, "now we reach the place where we begin to pick up the slack in the thread of our narrative. Here is this bird who looks like Jim Blair. He, too, is a flyer, acting as a spy for the Germans, a young Frenchman who had put in several years in New York, learned to talk English as it's talked on New York's east side. Well, he has his instructions from Maxwell—"

"Keep a lookout for young Blair," and Blair finally drops down just as scores of others have dropped down. Of course this Frenchman recognizes Jimmy, who looks so much like himself. When the chance offers he steals the young flyer-prisoner's khaki uniform with all his letters, tag and everything. He leaves his own German outfit. Then he fixes the airplane and takes the air—all decked out in an American aviator uniform."

"The crash is out-and-out accident. He simply loses control when a wing splits and hits the earth, and it happens to be on the road where Pat Blair is driving her ambulance at that moment. That's the only coincidence there is in the whole affair."

"But right there," proclaims the narrator, "is where the chance backs up and deliberate purpose goes to work. This flyer hears Pat's exclamation, 'It's my brother, Jimmy,' but he knows he can't keep up the play if he tries to talk. So he goes 'bloody' and you, Doctor, and your wise brother medics call him a case of 'aphasia.' "In the meantime Maxwell, who is the 'fox' back of the whole scheme, is right here in Paris where he has been for months waiting for his man Friday, who looks like Jim, to get his chance at Jim. Finally the chance comes. The rest we know. That night nurse at C—was the chap who sent the word to Maxwell here in Paris. Then Maxwell gets busy and Pat is kidnapped. He couldn't chance her learning his man Friday was not her brother. Then Jim is brought here at the instigation of Maxwell, who is kidnapping. Whereupon Maxwell appears in his office of guardian and administrator to take his man Friday back to New York for the big transfer. If we only knew the wording of that will we'd pretty near know his whole game. But—"

"Maxwell's instructions were to keep a lookout for young Blair."

They didn't know the wording of that will. Nor did they, in reality, know much about Maxwell's real game, as they were destined to learn. But that which they suspected was a plenty. Suspicion, however, as Dallard admitted, availed them nothing unless they could verify it. Meanwhile time kept right on jogging along.

On November 14, Herbert Maxwell, accompanied by his alleged ward, for whom a private nurse had been engaged, left the trio a friendly farewell and departed for America. None of the three shed any tears at the departure.

It would be absurd to say that the reported legacy of the twins carried no interest for any of them. Each fully realized that if a plot existed its purpose was the sequestration of all or a part of the $200,000 said to be due the pair on their twenty-fifth birthday. And each of the trio also knew if there was a plot the very lives of Patricia and Jim Blair depended upon the conditions governing the transference of the legacy.

Rex Dallard knew that his own life would never again be the same if the girl were dead. He suspected, too, that Dr. Gordon felt much the same. As for Margery Lyne, she had frankly confessed to herself and to the lieutenant that Jim, even with his poor shattered brain, was the very apple of her eye and the first boy she had ever wanted for her own. And to neither Rex nor Margery had any thought of the Blair fortune figured in their hopes.

With the ending of the war and its attending upheaval of everything came thoughts of other days and other people. To the trio, now banded together by their common purpose, all thoughts of returning home until the fate of the kidnapped pair had been cleared up were put aside.

"Why, I wouldn't even think of going home," at least he for a long time," avowed Margery, her tearful eyes and quivering chin mute evidences of her feelings. "For I'd be altogether wretched, not knowing whether Jim—and Pat—were dead or alive!" And to Margery's resolution both Dallard and Dr. Gordon subscribed in full.

Something in the doctor's voice, perhaps, caused the young nurse to glance at him. She observed then, with a quick tightening of her heartstrings, that his cheeks had grown thin and his eyes sunken. She knew that he had been constantly at work from the day he arrived in France and that was in the preceding September.

more than a year before. She had come over in the following April and had not missed a day from work since. She knew that she needed a rest and she knew that Dr. Gordon needed one even more. Lieutenant Dallard, as she knew, had enlisted as a private in the Canadian army in 1916. He had gained a Lieutenantancy during the siege of Verdun. Up until the evening before his meeting with Jim in the shell hole he had been engaged in some ten or twelve battles and had never been wounded once, nor gassed, nor shell shocked. Now in the process of convalescing he was getting a rest. She felt that both Dr. Gordon and herself were entitled to rest also. It was upon her suggestion, therefore, that they asked for and obtained a month's furlough from active duty.

PROMINENT DRY LAW WET DISCUSS FIRST DECADE OF DRY LAW

unpopular. It is the height of irony to enforce this law with meager appropriation in the with the thousands of mile boundary lines such as Mexico, Canada, as well as of our sea on the Pacific and Atlantic, to nothing of the enforcement in counties and several thousand towns in the United States. It is a grossly certain will appropriate any amount of money necessary to bring real enforcement.

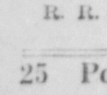

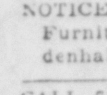

The most important thing accomplished of which would the greatest relief is to arrange speedy trials and this could be accomplished by a bill which introduced three years ago, again during the present session, which would allow anyone with violating the law with the sent to be taken immediately to a United States commiss and have the case against him. Nine out of ten times they plead guilty when tried immediately, if they are allowed to jail for some time, at great expense to the government or bond, some shrewd lawyer convinces him that if he will pay a fee he could get him off with any fine or imprisonment. United States commissioners would these promptly and save expense to the government by bringing the violators out of jail penitentiary.

I have tried for years to a increased appropriation for enforcement of the prohibition and if we had appropriate amount needed and secure number and class of men for this work, the law would have a fair trial. The people of a country have become accustomed to the federal government enforcing laws of this kind and the will not do it except in connection with the government. I was pleased with President Hoover's recommendation a merely hope they may be out and that congress will appropriate sufficient sums of money to really make an honest effort to enforce the law.

AMERICAN WOMEN "GADABOUTS"

CHICAGO, Jan. 1. — An can women have great fault which is that I run around too much, according to John Cowper Powys, English author and lecturer. Speaking before the Mers Club here Powys declared that life needs reflective mutation to assume meaning and overacting can never place that quality. President Roosevelt's principle of the "strenuous" was well and good when Alca was in its pioneer days, contemplation is needed, the author cautioned.

Comedy teams come and comedy teams go in Hollywood, but it is believed that the current successful team is the first all-female team to reach the heights. We refer to none other than Marie Dressler and Polly Moran.

Marie Dressler did her stuff on the musical comedy stage while Polly was emoting in the pictures until the talkies threw the pair together. They went over big in the Other flickies at the opening included Alice White and Sid Burlett, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Z. Leonard (Gertrude Olmstead) Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mulhall, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fay (Barbara Stanwyck), Mr. and Mrs. Tay Garnett (Patsy Ruth Miller), Mr. and Mrs. Monte Blue and others.

Mary Astor, who was widowed so tragically recently, is going over to the Famous lot next week to play the lead in George Bancroft's "Women Love Beasts". The picture has been in production more than a week but she was not in the first sequences. She was recently bereaved when her husband, Kenneth Hawks, was killed in an airplane crash.

The third prize in the acre corn contest conducted by the State Board of Agriculture was awarded to O. A. Dobbins, near Cedarville, who raised 111 bushels and forty-six pounds on his acre.

While Frank Fletcher was removing some heavy boxes from his grocery wagon, one of them slipped and fell, cutting his head and face.

The new addition to the Y. M. C. A. is nearing completion and it is expected that the opening can be held about February 1.
